Harris slipped around to the east side near the gate, and White called to the woman with the key and asked her to let them out. This she refused to do, and in a moment the Jailer came up and discovered their plan. They had evidently hoped that the woman would mistake the voice of White for that of the Jailer. When once the gate was opened they would have rushed out and made their escape through the kitchen beneath the courthouse, which is the only egress, as the rest of the space in front of the gate in the wall is fenced in by high boards.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

ALEXANDRIA, September 13, 1830.

The body of the unknown white man which was found floating in the Potomac on Thursday last has been identified as that of Thomas Wood, of St. Mary's county, Md. The recognition of the body came about in a most curious way.

Early in this week a canoe belonging to Captain Phil. McKenney, of this city, was found adrift in the lower river, and in it were a quantity of goods. The boat had last been in the charge of a man named Wood, and it was supposed that he was drowned. Hearing of the finding of the body, and of its being brought here, Wood's friends had it exhumed, and by the clothes and other marks recognized it. The drowned man left the city during the latter part of last week in the canoe for St. Mary's county, and no doubt fell overboard, as ne marks of violence could be found on the body.

Resolution Demanding an Investigation Introduced in the House. fBy telegraph to the Dispatch, 1 Washington, September 13.—Representa-tive McCreary, of Kentucky, to-day intro-duced in the House the following resolu-

It was exactly 2 o'clock when the Doctor again reached the hotel, a free man. He was met by many friends and congratulated upon the peaceful ending of his strouble. He then ordered a team and drove out to see his aged mother, who had been very ill and almost heart-broken ever since his escape, ten days ago. Every one seems to be entirely satisfied with the manner in which the sensation was brought to an end, and will endeavor to forgive and forget.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. New York, September 13.—The stock market New York, September 13.—The stock marked to-day was again weak and declining, with further liquidation of small long accounts, but freer short seiling by both local operators and Chicago parties. The general expectation that the superbola of the stocker increase in the dedict October. there was to be a further increase in the deficit shown by the banks from the requirements of the 25 per cent, rule gave hearish traders an opportunity to continue their hammering open seller of its specialties at the opening.

PIBST PRICES BUT SLIGHTLY CHANGED. First Prices But slightly Changes.

The first prices were generally but slightly changed from those of last svouling, but pressure was brought to bear first upon North Americas, which has since its appearance on the list been the drawing bear card, and it retired rapidly from 43 to 41, and afterward to 40%. Chicago gas followed with a drop from 43% to 42%, and then the Grangers and the sugar-reduction the first period of the sugar-reduction yielded from I per cent. to 1%.

THE BANK STATEMENT.

The bank statement showed, as expected, a further increase in the deficit in the reserve and it now amounts to over $3,000,000, but its effect had been such dentity discounted in the early decline and the movement to cover neutralized
